Imani Duck Coppola

34, singer-songwriter, multi-instrumentalist, producer and owner of Plush Moon Records (imanicoppola.com); Bedford-Stuyvesant, Brooklyn

“My style is Afro punk, Pagan funk, crazy Buddha. It’s colorful, bold and carefree. In general, I like to wear friendly and approachable looks, but always paired with a fuck-you element. I’m a New Yorker—I need attention but I also need my space. I first moved to Manhattan when I got a record deal at 18—I was still a kid. I just wanted to play with color and sparkle makeup, snort Pixy Stix and create wacky characters. I used to look like a cross between Rainbow Brite and Punky Brewster in a fluorescent Ricky’s wig paired with bright-green fairy wings and clown shoes. But then something changed in me as I lived in the city longer: This concept of looking ‘cool’ grew on me. It’s interesting, nowadays it seems as if we’re back to where the ‘90s wanted to go—be as outrageous as you can possibly appear to be, but I did that already. Now I like to outrage through the medium of my music and look cool while I’m doing it.” —Cristina Velocci

HER FAVORITE NYC STYLE RESOURCES

➔ Beacon’s Closet 92 Fifth Ave at Warren St, Park Slope, Brooklyn (718-230-1630) • 88 North 11th St between Berry St and Wythe Ave, Williamsburg, Brooklyn (718-486-0816) • beaconscloset.com “I am often driven out of clothing stores in a cold sweat with my heart palpitating because of the music. This doesn’t happen at Beacon’s Closet. Music is important; the right tunes really help you get into the zone you need to be in to get the right looks for yourself.”

➔ Callalilai 827 Broadway between 12th and 13th Sts (212-477-7377) • 43 Spring St between Mott and Mulberry Sts (212-334-2188) • 296 Atlantic Ave between Hoyt and Smith Sts, Cobble Hill, Brooklyn (718-875-1790) • callalilai.com

“Sometimes I like to wear clothes that make me feel like a spiritual leader, and the items from Callalilai give me that feeling of spiritual togetherness. The tribal patterns and earth tones just make me feel one with it all. The store also carries Aoyama Itchome (aoyamaitchome.com), who is one of my favorite designers and makes very loose-fitting, comfortable yet beautiful clothing.”

➔ D’mai Urban Spa 157 Fifth Ave between Lincoln and St. Johns Pls, Park Slope, Brooklyn (718-398-2100, dmaiurbanspa.com) “I just discovered D’mai, which is my new favorite spot.

It’s fancy pants. I go there when I want to feel like I’m at a spa in the Virgin Islands. Once you step inside, you won’t feel like you’re in Brooklyn anymore, which is the whole point.”

➔ Goodwill 1100 Fulton St between Classon and Franklin Aves, Bedford-Stuyvesant, Brooklyn (718-789-0856) “I get a little nostalgic when I go to the Goodwill in Bed-Stuy. When I was growing up, we shopped in thrift stores because we couldn’t afford to shop elsewhere. It was embarrassing for me then but now it’s like a source of pride. There are so many incredibly unique items you can find in a secondhand store. I almost always leave feeling like I just won the fashion lottery.”
